Introduction

The following document is a basis for the online catalogue of initiatives that was prepared for the two studies on MOOCs4Inclusion, financed by the Joint Research Centre (JRC) of the European Commission. The second MOOCs4inclusion study is coordinated by Charalambos Vrasidas and the CARDET Team (www.cardet.org). The first study was coordinated by Elizabeth Colucci, with a team comprising Hanne Smidt, Axelle Devaux and Matteo Barberi (RAND Europe), Charalambos Vrasidas (CARDET) and Malaz Safarjalani.

The information provided online (www.moocs4inclusion.org) is based upon the below templates that describe free digital learning (FDL) initiatives. As of when this document was first submitted (5 October, 2016) during the first study, the research team was still validating some of the information. This version (updated as of 30 November, 2017) contains updated and validated (by the initiatives) templates developed during the second study, where it has been possible. Some fields have still been left blank due to lack of public information on this aspect.

Though FDL initiatives listed in this Catalogue vary quite a bit in nature and magnitude (some are larger scale projects which piloted FDL resources while some are individual Apps and online courses), attempts have been made to categorise them according to 'purpose', the type of resource or technology they use, whether they are 'blended' approaches or only online/digital, and the extent to which they are ongoing, completed projects or forthcoming (awaiting launch).

- Purpose: Initiatives have been sorted according to their intended purposes, namely:
 - primary/secondary education
 - language learning
 - social inclusion
 - higher education (formal, with the intention to obtain a degree or credits)
 - employment
 - teacher training
 - infrastructure
 - other

Most of these categories have been inspired by the indicators for measuring integration that have been agreed by the European Union in the Zaragoza Declaration (<http://register.consilium.europa.eu/doc/srv?l=EN&f=ST%209248%202010%20INIT> (see page 16). These indicators are social inclusion, education and employment.

For the sake of classifying FDL initiatives, all initiatives contributing towards a formal education degree have been put under 'formal higher education' or 'primary/secondary education'. Initiatives (often in the form of Apps and online courses) that aim at provide instruction on civic integration, such as vocabulary for navigating health or social security systems, or courses related to democratic values, fall under 'social inclusion'. FDL explicitly for language learning has been separated into the 'language learning' category, though this can also overlap with 'social inclusion'. FDL initiatives that aim at teaching employability related skills fall under 'employment'. A separate category has been created for 'teacher training' since there are a handful of initiatives that aim to train teachers that work with migrants/refugees, via FDL. Also, another category that was added during the second study was 'Infrastructure' to document those initiatives that provide technical support and access to infrastructure.

- Type of resource/technology used: This is generally described according to the following categories:
 - MOOC
 - Online course
 - App
 - Video
 - Digital resources
 - Electronic handbook
 - Other

Some initiatives use various types of technology and resources. Specifications regarding the technology and/or pedagogy used can be found in the description of the initiative.

- 'Blended' versus 'Online (OL)': This categorisation has been added so that users will be able to search for initiatives that may have a 'blended' approach, namely those that combine online/digital learning with some sort of face-to-face learning and support. Other FDL offers are purely online/digital. Some of the projects mentioned in the Catalogue piloted the online resource at hand through a blended approach (teaching users how to use it through workshops, for example), but now that the project is completed the FDL offer remains an online resource only.

This categorisation is better visualized through 'tagging' on the MOOCs4inclusion website. In some instances, initiatives are double and triple tagged with they fall into several categories. This enhances the search functionality.

Higher education (formal)

Initiatives documented during the first study.

Kiron Open Higher Education

| Title | Kiron Open Higher Education |
| Date launched | 2015 |
| Duration (Completed, ongoing, forthcoming) | Ongoing |
| Type of Resource (MOOC, App, Digital Learning Platform, etc.) | MOOC |
| Purpose (Language learning, formal HE degree, civic integration, employability related...) | Higher education (formal) |
| Online/digital only (OL) or blended | Blended |
| Learning objectives | Allow refugees to fulfil their potential through higher education and graduate with an accredited university degree. |
| Description of resource (300 words, overview, content, methods, etc.) | An innovative education model is designed to surmount all four of the access challenges faced by refugees: Legal obstacles, language barriers, financial barriers, physical capacity of HEIs. Study programmes are implemented in Germany, France, Turkey and Jordan in four different fields (business, engineering, computer science and social science). Students are enrolled in a three to four year programme whereby, ideally, the first two years are done online and the final year (to two years) at a partner university. The online phase is done via MOOCs that have been selected by Kiron, provided by MOOC platforms and partner universities. Students can begin studying at all stages of the displacement and resettlement process - they do not have to wait for their legal status to be finalised. A buddy programme, counseling services and language classes are already provided during the online phase, as well as career services and 'Study Hubs'. This is provided in cooperation with local partner universities, volunteers and NGOs. Students earn credits for their online course work and, when ready, can apply to enter a partner university to complete their studies. |
| Target group | Refugees in different phases of the resettlement process, seeking higher education. |

| Evaluation results/ monitoring plan (if applicable) | Funding has been generated from BMBF (German Federal Ministry of Education and Research - BMBF) for the professionalisation and quality improvement of the Kiron programme. A long term evaluation is being done by the University of Bonn (impact assessment over the next 8 years). This will cover all study programmes offered as well as the mentoring programme and the language programme. Data learning analytics are received regularly by MOOCs/MOOC platform that Kiron utilises. This helps to assess the engagement and “success” of students |
| Recognition or certification of learning (how done and by who, free or fee...) | Kiron currently has over 23 partner institutions that are committed to work on the process of recognition. The objective is that once accepted to the programme, students will eventually have their online credits recognised by the partner university at which they will later apply to study, if that university accepts them according to their normal enrolment standards. Kiron is working closely with the recognition offices and services of partner universities. |
| Financing and sustainability model (who financed the initiative, what are the plans for future financing, sustainability, etc.) | Kiron charges no admission fees. Costs are covered through a combination of funding, investments, and donations. Initial funds were generated through a crowd-funding campaign on Startnext and were generated almost exclusively from German donors. Kiron works with independent organisations to achieve financial transparency and releases an annual report of finances. For the future, Kiron aims to work with companies (that could also be potential employers for their students) and generate more Social Impact Investment. |

Jamiya Project

| Duration (Completed, ongoing, forthcoming) | Ongoing |
| Type of Resource (MOOC, App, Digital Learning Platform, etc.) | MOOC App |
| Online/digital only (OL) or blended | Blended |
| Purpose (Language learning, formal HE degree, civic integration, employability related...) | Higher education (formal) |
| Learning objectives | The Jamiya Project aims to provide relevant and accessible higher education for Syrian refugees by reconnecting them with Syrian academics, European universities and the latest education technology. The learning objectives of the courses should be tailored to the needed skills of displaced Syrian students. |
| Description of resource (300 words, overview, content, methods, etc.) | Jamiya is currently piloting one 12 week blended (online and in-person tuition) 'Small Private Online Courses' (SPOCs, not MOOCs) in Applied IT and preparing a second in Global Studies, which will be accredited and delivered in Arabic (with some English materials). These are being delivered in collaboration with the University of Gothenburg, a small team of Syrian academics and NGOs in the field - Norwegian Refugee Council and Jesuit Refugee Service, both in Jordan. By making use of existing courses at the bachelor level (adapted from University of Gothenburg), learning infrastructure and technology, the pilot tests a model that makes use of the skills of refugee communities in leading the creation and delivery of new higher education solutions. The course content is delivered online, however there is in-person tutoring through a blended learning model, via block seminars delivered by academics and weekly tutoring sessions run by local partner. A mentoring programme is in place whereby students on the Applied IT course are paired with a displaced Syrian scholar, who serves as a mentor via virtual meetings. Further developing the mentoring programme is being explored. Jamiya is also collaborating with Empower Hack to build a prototype of the 'Jamiya VocApp': a mobile and web application to assist students Syrian starting courses in Europe in a second language (English, German and French) with learning relevant academic technical vocabulary through a peer-to-peer micro-learning platform. The platform will provide contextualised translation of terms Arabic<>English/German/French, online support from Syrian peers and |

| | Syrian academics. |
| Target group | Displaced current and potential Syrian higher education students |
| Evaluation results/ monitoring plan (if applicable) | Jamiya has created an open online forum for Syrian refugees to provide feedback about the model and approach. This has already generated more than 800 responses. In early 2016, Jamiya conducted a survey of Syrian refugees regarding their needs and experience of education, particularly higher education. Jamiya will be evaluated by external consultants who are designated to produce a report on methodology and the overall model (to take place end of 2016) |
| Recognition or certification of learning (how done and by who, free or fee...) | Courses are recognised by the partner university which provides the existing course. The model seeks to apply ECTS and be recognised across the European Higher Education Area. |
| Financing and sustainability model (who financed the initiative, what are the plans for future financing, sustainability, etc.) | The Jamiya project is currently incubated by Alexandria Trust: http://alexandriatrust.org - an independent fundraising institution that is also supporting Al Fanar Media. It aims to become a stand-alone charity and is currently assembling a board. Jamiya would like to pair with further European universities to roll out more courses. The funding model and possibilities are currently being assessed via the pilot phase. |

| Learning objectives | The Diploma of Liberal Studies and Community Service Learning provide an interdisciplinary approach to teaching a number of relevant skills for migrants and refugees, ranging from communication skills to team management, business studies, social impact and sustainability and literature/writing. |
| Description of resource (300 words, overview, content, methods, etc.) | With the mission: “Learning Together to Transform the World”, Jesuit Worldwide Learning: Higher Education at the Margins (JWL) is a collaborative global partnership comprised of organizations, institutions, companies and volunteers to provide tertiary education to those who would otherwise not have access to higher learning opportunities. Students are organised into virtual global classrooms, with 15 students for each course. Of the fifteen students, 8 to 10 countries are represented, with Muslims, Christians, Buddhists, and local religions represented. As students learn together in the virtual classroom, the curriculum transformation integrates authors and literature representative of middle-eastern thought, western ideas, African theories, Asian principles, Latin American wisdom, etc. Two academic programmes were initially developed to serve students: The Diploma of Liberal Studies and Community Service Learning Tracks (CSLTs). The programmes were developed through input from refugees and host community members, and with input from JRS, faculty, and Universities. They were piloted on refugees and host community members in Dzaleka refugee camp in Malawi, Kakuma refugee camp in north-west Kenya, and in the city of Amman, Jordan. Pilot sites were added in 2014 in Aleppo, Syria, Afghanistan, Thailand, and in Chad. Students are now enrolled in the Diploma program in Myanmar, and slated for 2015 are sites for CSLT in Chad with JRS and UNHCR, in Bendum, Philippines with our new partner APC; in Sri Lanka with JRS and the Province; and in Za’atari Camp, Jordan- Syria border with JRS and UNHCR. Partners of JC:HEM have donated computers, information systems and Blackboards to the pilot sites (camps). |
| Target group | Refugees and other potential higher education learners ‘on the margins’ |

|--|--|
| Evaluation monitoring plan (if applicable) results/ | Since 2010, more than 1,900 students have studied in JC:HEM programs, 28% of whom are women and 14% from the local populations. The goal is to ensure retention and completion rates of 80% or above with less than 10% attrition due to reasons other than resettlement. An alumni programme is established and the alumni activities, employment and further learning are reported on in the annual report. There is also an alumni coordinator onsite in two locations. End of course evaluations are embedded into each Diploma course for feedback from students and faculty. Response rates from faculty have been low so new strategies for completion are being pursued in 2016. New survey questions were tested in 2015 and were revised for 2016 to obtain more pertinent feedback. Course evaluation is one part of the JC:HEM research agenda. A doctoral assistantship was awarded through Gonzaga University to analyze all course feedback to date. Findings will guide revisions to the end of course survey. |
| Recognition or certification of learning (how done and by who, free or fee...) | JWL Academic Programmes includes both credit-bearing and certificate-level courses. Credit-bearing courses are offered with Regis University (USA). The Diploma in Liberal Studies is a 45 credit hour programme, resulting in a Diploma awarded by Regis University, which is regionally accredited by the Higher Learning Commission. JWL also works with partnering universities to develop vocational curriculum that are awarded certificates based on the UNESCO standard of Technical Vocational Education and Training (TVET). |
| Financing and sustainability model (who financed the initiative, what are the plans for future financing, sustainability, etc.) | In 2010, a private donor supported JC:HEM as a three-year pilot project. During the pilot phase, JC:HEM developed a “sustainable, scalable, transferrable model” (according to their website). Annual reports are published online and financial reports can be requested. |

| Description of resource (300 words, overview, content, methods, etc.) | The aim of the Lab is to ensure that every refugee and forcibly displaced person has access to relevant and high-quality learning opportunities that will enable them to serve as agents of change for their communities. It enables the provision of training, vocational and higher education through virtual learning (including professional and teaching degrees) provided in refugee camps using on-line and blended learning pedagogies. The Learn Lab's strength lies in its collaboration with the Education Unit within UNHCR's Division of International Protection, and the partnerships it builds with external leaders in innovation and education to help orient and validate programmes. The largest initiative within the Learn lab is called "connected learning" and the partners are: the Australian Catholic University or ACU; Borderless Higher Education for Refugees or BHER, InZone-University of Geneva, Jesuit Commons: Higher Education at the Margins, Kenyatta University, Kepler, Moi University, PEIC, UNHCR and the VodaFone Foundation. The partners provide on-line and blended learning certified courses for refugees in camps all over the world. These are under constant development in order to identify the best pedagogical model and ensure the quality of the offers. |

|---|---|
| | In the primary and secondary educational sector, UNHCR primarily works through the ministries of education. There are some initiatives, like the TIGER (These Inspiring Girls Enjoy Reading), targeted at adolescent Syrian girls in the UNHCR Zaatari camp in Jordan. Students get access a wide range of open educational resources, connected by Wi-Fi to a Raspberry Pi server. This enables them to experience self-paced learning as an active, engaging and sustained process that is aligned with the school assignments and directly relevant to their current and evolving needs. |
| Target group | Refugees and displaced persons globally, at primary, secondary and tertiary education level. |
| Evaluation results/ monitoring plan (if applicable) | Recently, a monitoring plan has been adopted, but no information available. |
| Recognition or certification of learning (how done and by who, free or fee...) | Partners develop and advocate in-house for refugee-focused programmes and ensure that content and pedagogy of the virtual learning align with international academic standards. UNHCR is responsible for ensuring a programme is aligned with its humanitarian protection mandate. The courses are certified by the providers. Providers vary. They include partners like Jesuit Commons Higher Education at the Margins, the African Virtual University, InZone and others. |
| Financing and sustainability model (who financed the initiative, what are the plans for future financing, sustainability, etc.) | Funding by/through UNHCR, which collaborates with different foundations and private companies. There are plans to keep developing the concept of connected learning with more partners. |

| Description of resource (150 words, overview, content, methods, etc.) | The platform offers original Arabic courses to further enrich Arab education. Edraak focuses on creating materials from scratch that are tailored to Arabic-speaking students. Through its partnership with edX, the platform also gives Arab learners access in Arabic to courses taught and developed at top tier institutions like HarvardX, MITX, and UC BerkelyX. All courses are delivered at no cost to the learner. The Queen Rania Foundation (QRF), which has supported the launch of Edraak, envisions the use of the platform to showcase Arab role models by broadcasting short online courses by practitioners and professionals from a variety of fields spanning the arts and sciences. The platform enables the Arab world to take advantage of the international interest in regional affairs to tell its own story to the world. Arab university professors and regional experts can use the platform to give courses in English about the region and its history. This will serve to inform a global audience that is interested in the region's development. Edraak has developed 'blended' courses in partnership with Jordanian universities and has also partnered with NGOs and other organisations to provide course content and technological solutions to education delivery in refugee camps in the region. |
| Target group | Learners of all ages and sub-groups, with a special focus on youth. Some courses are being offered specifically to refugees in camps via partnerships, to accommodate their needs. |
| Evaluation results/ monitoring plan | Edraak actively monitors student participation and student satisfaction. It reaches students actively via social media. It collects learner feedback |

| | |
|--|---|
| (if applicable) | and develops course evaluation reports. Edraak is driven towards openness, and wants to share and collaborate on data analysis and research via a new platform that is to be launched: 'Research.edraak'. |
| Recognition or certification of learning (how done and by who, free or fee...) | Certificate of attendance (or completion certificate) after examination is awarded for MOOCs. Courses that are offered in a blended manner with partner universities are accredited and recognised (at this stage, in the Jordanian higher education system). |
| Financing and sustainability model (who financed the initiative, what are the plans for future financing, sustainability, etc.) | Queen Rania Foundation is the main founder sponsor of Edraak, as well as Sheikh Mohamed bin Zayed Al Nahyan, Crown Prince of Abu Dhabi. | Purpose (Language learning, formal HE degree, civic integration, employability related...) | Language learning |

| Learning objectives | To improve the viewers' language understanding and how to use Danish in everyday situations. Focus on grammar and content learning in languages. |
| Description of resource (150 words, overview, content, methods, etc.) | The goal of these videos is to teach Danish in way that is more easily understood and accessible by migrants and refugees and who have Arabic as a first language – especially at a beginning stage. The traditional Danish as a second-language education was not able to make a good link between Danish and Arabic, and the 22-year old Syrian refugee Khaled, who took a language course in 2013 in order to access HE, realised that a better link between the two languages was needed, especially for migrants and refugees who did not speak English. He therefore started filming some videos of himself teaching Danish in Arabic that help other refugees that have difficulty in accessing the Danish languages. The video clips are very basic and also include a Danish speaking teachers, and last from 5 to 15 minutes. They have a simple set up and are supported by a Facebook page as well. The availability also make it possible for refugees who do not have asylum or easy access to a language course to practice. |
| Target group | Migrants and refugees with an Arabic language background (all ages) |
| Evaluation results/ monitoring plan (if applicable) | The 67 videos on YouTube have been viewed by more than 850 000 people in 8 months, and have now also been included in traditional Danish language learning classes at some institutions. The initiative won the 'Danish EU European Language label 2016.' |

| Description of resource (300 words, overview, content, methods, etc.) | The Erasmus+ Online Linguistic Support (OLS) currently offers online language courses in Czech, Danish, German, Greek, English, Spanish, French, Italian, Dutch, Polish, Portuguese and Swedish to higher education students, vocational education and training learners and young volunteers taking part in the Erasmus+ programme. The European Commission has decided to extend this service to the benefit of around 100.000 refugees over 3 years, on a voluntary basis and free of charge for them. The OLS can be used at any time from a computer, tablet or smartphone with an internet connection. The OLS language courses include a variety of self-paced modules covering different linguistic areas, as well as "Live Coaching" interactive activities (online MOOCs, tutoring sessions and forums). The participation in this initiative is voluntary. In the participating countries, the access to the OLS is granted to refugees who wish to improve their knowledge of one of the languages available in the OLS (Czech, Danish, German, Greek, English, Spanish, French, Italian, Dutch, Polish, Portuguese and Swedish) by an Erasmus+ beneficiary institution/organisation that has decided to take part. Refugees can choose to follow an OLS language course in any of the languages available. It is up to the beneficiary institution/organisation to indicate this choice in the OLS, based on the needs of the refugee and on the levels available for the different languages. The participating organisations/institutions grant access to refugees to the OLS language course based on the requests they receive and within the available number of OLS licences. A limited number of OLS licences is also available for operators who are directly in contact with refugees, to accompany, support and guide them through the OLS process. The participating organisations may make computers or other IT facilities available to refugees; however, this is not a requirement. The OLS can be accessed online with any device with a browser and internet connection. |

| Evaluation results/ monitoring plan (if applicable) | The European Commission will assess how many licenses are awarded for this purpose and how collect data on how many refugees take advantage of the offer. No further information is available on impact assessment. |
| Recognition or certification of learning (how done and by who, free or fee...) | Online assessment assesses participants' language skills - listening, reading and writing - according to the Common European Framework of Reference for Languages (CEFR). Refugees must first take a language assessment to find out what their current language level is. Upon completion of this assessment, they can access the language course (if available at the required level) for a duration of maximum 13 months. Language courses in German, English, Spanish, French, Italian and Dutch are available from A1 to C2 CEFR levels. Czech, Danish, Greek, Polish and Swedish language courses are offered at A1 level, while Portuguese is available until B2 level. At the end of the language course, they can download a record of participation and take a second language assessment to measure their progress in the language, if they wish so. The second language assessment is not compulsory. |

| Type of Resource (MOOC, App, Digital Learning Platform, etc.) | Online course |
| Purpose (Language learning, formal HE degree, civic integration, employability related...) | Language learning Social inclusion |
| Online/digital only (OL) or blended | OL |
| Learning objectives | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - The general objective of the project is to promote the social inclusion of the immigrants in EU societies. - The specific objective, is to increase the migrants' skills in the language of their host country. |
| Description of resource (150 words, overview, content, methods, etc.) | METIKOS - Informal Language Learning for Immigrants aims to promote the use of informal language learning methodologies for the training of immigrants. The aim of the project is to adapt existing informal learning methodologies (language café, tandem, virtual language café) to the specific needs of immigrants. The project METIKOS is proposing a new methodology for the learning and socialisation of adult migrants in the host country. More specifically, apart from the traditional Greekface-to-face language courses that take place in formal settings, migrants can also learn a language in informal settings. These settings offer the opportunity to practice a language in a non-threatening way and provide flexibility to learners. One method of non-formal language training is the "Language Cafe". More specifically, it offers the opportunity to practice a language in a sociable and friendly way without attending formal classes. In this regard, the project METIKOS offers a free online social space, a "CyberCafe" where people can meet, talk and learn languages together in an informal and sociable way. |

|---|---|
| | The CyberCafe aims to provide a social space for the learning of the language of the host country. In this social space learners will have the chance to practice their skills in the language of the host country. Links on resources are available on the net for their self-study. It also aims to facilitate the online participation of migrants that are having questions or that they want to exchange their ideas with other METIKOS project's participants in the Language Cyber Cafe. Through the use of the CyberCafe participants develop their language skills and socialize themselves in an online social environment. |

| Learning objectives | The project aims to support the development of language skills in migrants residing in the host country by delivering mini-lessons on the Greek language which require little effort by the learner and are easy to comprehend. |
| Description of resource (150 words, overview, content, methods, etc.) | The project is addressed to migrants who want to improve their language skills but do not want to spend a lot of time for the lessons. In this regard, the project takes advantage of the new information and communication technologies in order to encourage language learning. The learners can learn the language literally on the go, at any time and place on flexible electronic platforms (web-based and iPhone). For this purpose, an innovative e-learning tool has been developed in order to motivate learners of the Greek language. This innovative tool is the e-calendar for the learning of the Greek language. The calendar aims to help learners keep track of their language experience as they will need to allocate 10 minutes every day of the year to maintain and build upon their language skills. The calendar and the mini lessons are available free online and learners can access the material via Facebook and by downloading the application. Also, for people that don't have access to the above mentioned services, they can access the material through an online platform. The material developed during this project can be useful for people who wish to develop their language skills in the Greek languages for personal reasons (cultural interest, friends, business contacts, etc.). |
